

Experiment 1 — Comparative Study of Low-Code Development

Aim

To study and compare different Low-Code Development platforms and understand their features, advantages, and applications.

Introduction

Low-Code Development platforms allow applications to be developed using visual interfaces, drag-and-drop components, pre-built templates, and minimal programming. They reduce development time and make application development easier for users with limited coding experience.

Comparison

| Feature                               | Zoho Creator | Microsoft Power Apps | Google AppSheet         | Mendix                  |
|---------------------------------------|--------------|----------------------|-------------------------|-------------------------|
| Development                           | Low-Code     | Low-Code             | No-Code/Low-Code        | Low-Code                |
| Database                              | Built-in     | Dataverse            | Integrated data sources | Built-in                |
| Automation                            | Deluge       | Power Automate       | AppSheet Automation     | Workflow                |
| AI Support                            | Zia          | Copilot              | Gemini                  | AI-assisted             |
| API Integration                       | Supported    | Supported            | Supported               | Supported               |
| Business Best suited for applications |              | Microsoft ecosystem  | Simple business apps    | Enterprise applications |

Advantages of Low-Code

- Faster application development
- Less programming effort
- Easy integration with databases and APIs

- Rapid prototyping
- Easier application maintenance
- Suitable for business process automation

| LOW-CODE & NO-CODE PLATFORM COMPARISON: KEY FEATURE MATRIX |                                                                                            |                                                                                             |                                                                                             |                                                                                                  |
|------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Feature                                                    | Zoho Creator                                                                               | Microsoft Power Apps                                                                        | Google AppSheet                                                                             | Mendix                                                                                           |
| Development                                                | Low-Code                                                                                   | Low-Code                                                                                    | No-Code/Low-Code                                                                            | Low-Code                                                                                         |
| Database                                                   | Built-in  | Dataverse  | Integrated data sources                                                                     | Built-in      |
| Automation                                                 | Deluge    | Power Automate                                                                              | AppSheet Automation                                                                         | Workflow      |
| AI Support                                                 | Zia      | Copilot   | Gemini  | AI-assisted  |
| API Integration                                            | Supported                                                                                  | Supported                                                                                   | Supported                                                                                   | Supported                                                                                        |

Conclusion

Low-Code platforms simplify application development by reducing the amount of manual programming required. Zoho Creator is particularly useful for developing database-driven business applications with forms, reports, workflows, and integrations.